

BRITISH EXPECT NO EARLY END OF NAVAL PARLEY

Question of Limiting Fleet
May Be Submitted for Approval to the Empire's Dominions.

"NO BREAKDOWN," CECIL DECLARES

Leading English Delegates
Arrive in London to Consult With Cabinet on Their Future Course.

By the Associated Press
WASHINGTON, July 21.—The possibility of long delay before the London Government will finally formulate its attitude regarding the American proposal to the three-Power naval limitation conference. One is expected as the result of the stress which British diplomats, in conversations with State Department officials, have placed upon the desires of the British dominions in the matter.

The British Geneva delegation, these diplomats pointed out, speaks not for England alone but for all the dominions, for which, largely, the British navy is kept up. The dominions, in case of war, depend upon the British navy not only to maintain trade routes but for protection of their coasts. The dominions, British diplomats told the State Department, indorse the original British proposal presented to the conference on its opening day. Subsequent developments and British concessions to both the American and Japanese viewpoints have been closely followed by the dominions which have all along vigorously demanded that their safety in the event of war be not jeopardized.

Stressing Colonial Needs.
In the conferences which Lord Robert Cecil and W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the admiralty, will hold in London with the English cabinet, developments at Geneva will be discussed with the dominion problem doubtless well to the fore. The result of such conferences, British diplomats believe, will be to reach some determination as to what further concessions than mere technical arguments, but they believe the English authorities before weakening the defense links which form one of the chief binding forces of the British Empire, will require the consent of each individual dominion.

British diplomats also are concerned, in case the Geneva conference should fail to produce a treaty, that the failure should be ascribed to the American Government's responsibilities and to her desire to deny the United States absolute parity on the seas.

The very expression "parity," they hold, has been an unfortunate one, since, on account of the different problems and geographic positions of the United States and Great Britain, even ship for ship equality would give each country superiority over the other in certain naval activities.

Great Britain's large number naval bases, for instance, would appear to give her sea predominance. On the other hand, British diplomats points out, the United States would be able to concentrate her forces more than Great Britain owing to the less scattered nature of America's possessions.

British spokesmen are particularly anxious to impress Americans with the idea that their demands have been worked out to satisfy their minimum defense requirements in view of their long trade routes and their scattered territories and are not aimed against any specific Power or group of Powers.

No Breakdown of Conference, Viscount Cecil Declares.

By the Associated Press
LONDON, July 21.—"I am optimistic about the conference," said Viscount Cecil, who heads the British delegation to the tripartite naval conference on their return to London from Geneva to report the progress of negotiations to Premier Baldwin and the Cabinet.

"There is nothing in the nature of a breakdown," said Cecil, who indicated that he and W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the admiralty, would return to Geneva for a few days.

Man Found Unconscious Dies.
A man believed to be William Ritter, 18, about 18 years old, was found unconscious on the second floor of a vacant building at 4215 Easton avenue about 7:30 yesterday morning. His groans attracted attention of police who took him to city hospital. He died shortly after reaching there. An inquest will be held today.

Lawyer Outlines Birger's Case To Jury at Benton, Ill., Denying That Gangster Ordered Killing

Defense Plea Is That He Was Not at 'Shady Rest' at Time of Plot and Never Paid the Assassins.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
BENTON, Ill., July 21.—Attorneys for Charlie Birger, Art Newman and Ray Hyland made their opening statements to the jury yesterday afternoon, after the State had rested, and outlined their case to the charge of conspiracy in the murder of Mayor Joe Adams.

While court recessed to enable the defense to marshal its witnesses, Birger's counsel decided upon filing a motion for a continuance. Court was adjourned until this morning, and after hearing arguments, Judge Miller overruled the defense motion, whereupon attorneys for the three defendants in quick succession announced no defense would be presented, and the court ordered final arguments to the jury to begin at the afternoon session.

Smith Opens for Birger.

Summarized, Birger's defense, as outlined by Robert Smith, his chief counsel, was a profession of absolute innocence.

Attorney Smith, in opening for Birger, said:

"I am not appearing as prosecutor of Newman or Hyland but in defense of Birger. We expect to show that Birger was born in the United States—I believe near New York—and spent his boyhood in and around St. Louis. Ten or 12 years ago he was in Christopher for a while, then in and near Harrison.

"Joe Adams was elected president of his village board six or seven years ago. The Sheltons brought an armored car to a point between West City and Christopher where Adams and his associates owned a bootlegging joint, an open saloon. For a time Adams was friendly to Birger and there was friendship between the Sheltons and Birger.

"I am not here to hold a brief for Birger. I don't approve of the life he led. But that is not an issue in this case."

"Difficulty arose between the Sheltons and Birger and Adams joined the Shelton gang. There was an open break between Adams and Birger. Adams telephoned to Birger, 'You—Jewish—! Don't ever come into Franklin County.' Some time, somebody I don't know—who shot into the home of Gus Adams, the Mayor's brother. Joe Adams told the Sheriff and Prosecutor of this mystery and wanted protection but he didn't get it because he was conducting two hell holes in West City. So he got the Shelton gang for protection."

Gang War Headquarters.

"There was established at his place headquarters for the Shelton gang in the Southern Illinois gang war.

"Why, they paraded through Benton armed with machine guns and went into barber shops and restaurants with their weapons. I am going to put Birger on the witness stand and let him tell you his story."

The attorney said Birger's automobile had been fired into by occupants of another automobile.

Birger went to Waddell True's barbershop in West City to see about the Shelton's armored car, Smith said.

"Birger said to True, 'We understand there is a tank or an armored car, left here by Adams and the Shelton gang.' Smith continued, 'True said, "I don't know that, but then Birger said, "That's funny. I had definite information it was here." Then True took him out and showed it to him.'

"Birger said to True, 'You tell Joe that unless he stops using that tank there'll be trouble between him and me. If the law is not big enough to stop your bootlegging joint the law won't bother me.'

"Birger telephoned to Adams, 'Joe, get the Shelton gang out of there. They are bombing my home and endangering me and my family.' Adams replied, 'You tell hell you dirty—!'

"Birger never saw Gus Adams until he was on the witness stand in court here. An airplane was seen within 150 yards of the Adams home and something was placed in it. Early the next morning 'Shady Rest' was bombed from the air. Adams telephoned to Birger at Harrisburg, 'We came near getting you that time.'

"Birger never talked to Mrs. Adams. "Shady Rest" was bombed. Birger severed his relations with the place and went to his home in Harrisburg to protect his family and turned 'Shady Rest' over to Connie Ritter.

Not at "Shady Rest" Dec. 11.

"On Saturday night, Dec. 11, Birger got out of 'Shady Rest.' He was notified by Fred C. Weller that Carl Shelton was on the bus coming down to get him, so he drove to Marion and consulted the bus man. The conversation will let him tell you. He was in the office of the State's Attorney there at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, and what happened there I'll let him tell you."

"Shelton did not get in on the bus, so Birger drove to Dowell to Christopher. He went to Christopher, then returned to Marion, and there will be no denial that he called on the bus man there."

"At no time or no place did he pay the Thomassons or anybody else any money for the killing. He

SACCO COMMITTEE CONCLUDES HEARINGS

Argument by Counsel to Begin
Monday; Condemned Men
Still Refuse Food.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, July 21.—The advisory committee appointed by Gov. Alvan T. Fuller to make an independent investigation of the Sacco-Vanzetti case concluded its hearings today. Arguments by counsel for the two men under sentence of death for murder and by representatives of the State will be heard beginning next Monday.

The two prisoners continued to day their hunger strike at the State Prison. Since Sunday morning they have refused food.

Court Recesses to 2 p. m.

Judge Miller then ordered a recess until 2 p. m., instructing counsel to begin their arguments at that hour, and allotting the time to each side.

Overruling Birger's motion for a continuance in the trial, the court in the absence of the jury.

Judge Miller pointed out that the wording of the motion was in direct variance with the contention of Birger that he had no defense.

"Tortured to despair" by the Governor's plan of procedure.

Touching upon the matter of the Governor's alleged bias, the committee's letter declared:

"Into their dark cells is brought the report of a defense witness' interview with you. They are told that you plainly seem to view this and other defense witnesses as guilty and that you always indicate suspicion and that you always indicate a decided presumption and assertions a decided presumption of belief in the prosecution."

"The men of this dying old society they brutally pulled me away from the end of your brother and your poor mother. But they have Hyland join in the motion, but also a rebuke by Judge Miller for delaying the trial and a protest by State's Attorney Martin that he had no opportunity to reply to the new motion, this effort was withdrawn.

The Birger motion, consisting of nine typewritten pages, asked for the withdrawal of a juror and a continuance of the trial. In effect, the defense sought a new trial, and the formality of eliminating a juror was intended to prevent Birger from presenting later a plea of double jeopardy.

"The law governing conspiracy,"

Birger's motion was based on a charge that Newman was going to tell a detailed story of the crime, admitting the murder conspiracy and placing responsibility for the killing on the other two.

The committee made public a letter by Sacco to his 6-year-old daughter, Ines. One paragraph is:

DUDLEY FIELD MALONE SUED FOR DIVORCE IN PARIS COURT
Action Was Only Recently Denied By Wife, Noted Suffrage Leader—Hearing Discloses Suit.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, July 21.—The first hearing of a suit for divorce brought by Doris Stevens, woman suffrage leader, against Dudley Field Malone, attorney, was held today before the court tribunal of the Seine Department.

The hearing came as a surprise because only a week ago Miss Stevens flatly denied that she had filed suit against her husband.

At the conclusion of the hearing, Malone told the Associated Press: "In answer to published false statements, I wish to state unequivocally that my wife has never asked for alimony and, therefore, I have never refused her alimony, since neither of us believes in the principle that her life will be filled with alimony is based. My wife is a splendid woman. She has great happiness and distinguished achievements."

FLEES DEVIL'S ISLAND BUT IS RECAPTURED

Eugene Diendonne, Notorious Apache, Caught in Brazil Following Escape in Boat.

By the Associated Press.

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 21.—Eugene Diendonne, only living member of the internationally known anti-war band of Parisian Apaches who recently escaped from the penal colony in French Guiana, has been captured by Brazilian police in the state of Para, Northern Brazil.

Diendonne was brought to Rio de Janeiro in custody of the police. The notorious Apache, who was serving a life sentence, will be turned over to the French Consul. Diendonne declared that he was the victim of a mistake on the part of the authorities, and that he never was a member of the band led by the dreaded criminal Jules Bonnot, the "demon chauffeur." Diendonne was unjustly sentenced to life imprisonment, he said, which later was reduced to 15 years' penal servitude in French Guiana.

He was denied any freedom and determined to escape. He obtained a small fishing boat and going down the Oyapock River reached Vigo, a village in the state of Para, after 72 days' navigation in which his frail craft capsized twice. He landed at Belém, found employment, and was saving his money, he said, to return home, where he has a wife and child.

Diendonne's Capture Causes Thrill in Paris Underworld.

PARIS, July 21.—Eugene Diendonne's capture in Brazil after three months' hardships on the waters and in the swamps of South America has caused a thrill in the Paris underworld.

"He is not dead; that's something," Paris Apaches who frequent the brilliant Illuminated Street and darker lanes from Montmartre to Saint Denis Gate, said with a sigh of relief.

The escape of "the scholar member of the Bonnot gang" has been known in Paris for several months, many papers expressing the belief that he had lost his life in an attempt to make his way from Devil's Island, where Dreyfus spent years.

Related Reports of Storm Damage.

MURPHYSBORO, Ill., July 21.—Considerable damage was done by a gale, wind and rain storm at Ava and Campbell Hill, Tuesday, belated reports indicate. Many windows were broken and roofs were torn off of several farm houses. Growing crops and fruits also suffered heavily.

Does evening find you tired out? No reserve...no "pep" for the enjoyment of your own time?

HERE'S a way to build up extra energy—the margin that gives you the "edge" in work and zest in play.

EVERY night take a glass of Horlick's Malted Milk, hot before retiring. It gives you extra energy in two ways:

1. It induces sound, refreshing sleep. 2. It gives you additional nourishment in the most easily digestible form known.

PHYSICIANS have recommended it in run-down conditions for over a third of a century. Be sure you get "Horlick's"—the original and genuine.

128TH REACHES CAMP
ON LONG TRUCK TRIP

Regiment Will Remain at Fort Riley, Kan., a Week for Target Practice.

Special to the Post-Dispatch
MANHATTAN, Kan., July 21.—The 128th Field Artillery, Missouri National Guard, today is encamped at Fort Riley, near here. The regiment will remain a week. Most of the time will be spent in target practice and artillery schooling on the Fort Riley artillery range. Included in the regiment is Battery A of St. Louis, in which are 60 enlisted men and four officers of that city.

The regiment came into Manhattan yesterday on the last leg of its trip of 220 miles from Sedalia, Mo., and had planned to continue yesterday morning to Fort Riley. A heavy rain, however, caused cancellation of these plans and the men spent the forenoon visiting places of interest in Manhattan, departing in the early afternoon for Fort Riley.

The regiment is traveling by motor truck, the men riding in the trucks, and heavy guns trundling along behind. It is the first extended march of a Missouri military organization since 1845, when the then "Light Battalion" A of St. Louis marched to Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., and joined the command of Gen. Zachary Taylor on Oenepion to Mexico.

After camp is broken at Fort Riley, the regiment will return by motor to Sedalia. Thence the St. Louis battery will continue its trip into St. Louis. It expects to arrive over St. Charles Rock road Sunday afternoon, July 31.

Among other organizations encamped at Fort Riley for target practice are reserve officers of the 177th Field Artillery, the Brigade U. S. Capt. Louis Himmel of St. Louis, member of this outfit, won the Klemm cup last Tuesday for firing successfully upon an imaginary enemy, supposedly in a Valley 4000 yards away. The cup is awarded each year to the officer of the brigade who gives the best solution of a submitted artillery problem with the French 75 mm. gun, while on active duty.

NEW YORK POLICE CLEARED OF $100,000 STRIKE BRIEVE CHARGE

Union's Allegation For Workers' "Left Wing" Fid Sum Found Groundless At Hearing.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—The New York police, accused at a public hearing in April last of having received $100,000 "kick-back" money from the "left wing" side of a 17-weeks' fur strike, were today officially exonerated by a legislative Corrigan.

The Magistrate, who conducted the hearing in the Mayor's investigation, said examination of the testimony did not support the charges, and that the Police Department must accordingly be given a "clean bill of health."

At the hearing last spring, instituted after American Federation of Labor officials had announced the left wing leaders had spent large sums in bribery, the charges were denied by the left wing leaders and by the police.

The left wing leaders counter-charged with the statements that the charges had been made by the Federation officials to discredit the left wing group and take away the leadership in the strike.

THREE CONVICTED OF AIR SMUGGLING PLOT

Airmen Found Guilty of Conspiracy to Bring Chinese Into U. S. by Planes.

By the Associated Press
LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 21.—A jury in Federal Court took just 10 minutes to convict Emmett Longbrake and John J. O'Brien, commercial aviators, and Burleigh R. Chaney, manager of the Eagle Airport, of conspiring to smuggle Chinese from Mexico into the United States by airplane.

Longbrake and O'Brien were acquitted last week of the same count of specific charges of smuggling six Chinese by airplane.

Counsel for the convicted men will ask for a new trial when they are brought up for sentence Monday. The flyers face a maximum sentence of two years.

The men were arrested April 30. Immigration officers stationed at the Eagle Airport near here took Longbrake and O'Brien into custody as they were leaving the planes. But when Chaney landed his plane a few minutes later, Arthur Dugarty, a student aviator and a passenger in Chaney's plane, was killed by shots fired by the officers. The officers declared the plane started to take off again when ordered to halt.

No aliens were found in the planes but Federal officers charged that the Chinese had been landed somewhere on the way from the border to Los Angeles.

RHEUMATISM
now treated a new way

Stops pain by removing the cause. No opiates. No distasteful drugs. No dieting.

A new and more effective way to treat Rheumatism is now reported.
An astonishing simple method that is said to give almost immediate relief from this old ailment; and its near kin, Lumbago, Gout and Neu-ritis. The treatment originated in one of the exclusive health retreats of Europe, now celebrated for its success in Rheumatic cases. In accord with advanced medical thought, which opposes druging the body,
full use is made of Nature's constant efforts to heal. And so simple and necessary a thing as one's drinking water forms a large part of the treatment. Certain substances the body lacks are supplied in a vegetable extract which is dropped into the water several times a day. As a result Uric Acid crystals and other poisons causing the pain, become liquid and flush from the body. Relief is almost instant.
Usually the first day. Medical observers are amazed at the naturalness of the treatment; and its harmony with bodily processes.

Sales rights under the name of RUGEN-AL have been acquired for the United States. A Canadian firm that celebrated treatment may be taken at home at a small part of the cost made available by the new method. All will soon have Rugenal. Wolff-Wilson has already received an advance supply.

Prix des Drags Drew A Brave Fashion Show

BY CORALIE VAN PAASSEN.

PARIS. THE fashion display at the races eclipsed anything that Paris has seen since the close of the war. Old-fashioned mail coaches loaded with mannequins from the leading couturier establishments gave a picturesqueness to the dense motor traffic.

Of these bright-colored old four-in-hand coaches the most interesting for Americans was that of Dr. Charles Adams Holder with its famous team of thoroughbreds.

The mail coach of the dressmakers carried mannequins wearing an elegant assortment of spring creations, including taffeta hand-painted robes de style and filmy lace frocks. Later the mannequins mingled with the crowds and evoked gasps of admiration from the tens of thousands of women racegoers.

It is estimated that a larger and more fashionable American group was present at the races this year than ever before. Among those in the tribune, the grand circle of Longchamps, were Mr. Charles A. Munn, Joseph Widener, Mr. and Mrs. Berry Wall, Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, Mrs. Clarence Jones, Ralph Beaver Strassberg, Chrystal Hearne, H. S. Pollard, Mrs. Bentley Mott, Miss Edith Manville, Mrs. Hiram Beverly. With them were members of the Spanish nobility and several members of the Italian haut monde as well as the Russian Grand Duke and Vivienne, Countess von Hohenberg. Dourmeyer, an ardent devotee and admirer of feminine charms, appeared on the official tribune accompanied by King Alfonso of Spain and Prince Doria, nephew of King Fuad of Egypt. Manuel of Portugal and his mother, Queen Amelie, were also present, as well as Princess Christopher of Greece.

The races were followed by several open air festivals in the Bois de Boulogne resorts. Balls were held beneath the starlit sky and the night was danced away in the rainbow radiance of high romance.

The most remarkable novelty of the fashion display at the races was the presence of so many dainty, fluffy summer frocks and wraps, such lovely designs and colorings, such a variety of soft, silk-like material. It seemed almost a carnival of Victoria's day. The revival of the large hat trimmed with a soft fantasy in feathers, a rose under the brim or a little nose-glow of flowers tucked in the folds of lustrous satin ribbons was the finishing touch to the tout ensemble.

Flowered chiffon and georgettes which for a time seemed to have been supplanted by new designs of small conventional flowers, and checks, have burst forth again in all their former glory. There is nothing quite so gay and so much apropos of a festival at the races and garden parties as these brilliantly colored frocks.

The new gowns were usually made with very full skirts and bloused or jacket bodices, with no trimming except perhaps a flower at the shoulder or the waist. A gown of figured mousseline was in a large floral design of yellow, pink and white. It had a skirt composed of two rather full bands, each edged with a band of plain black silk muslin and a bodice that was of the loose jacket type.

Beige seemed to have retained its influence. As a matter of fact it is the favorite color for all kinds of costumes. Tans and browns are seen more and more at fashionable parties and in the bars of the smart hotels. Golden brown has as well as the redder tobacco shade has appeared in the several collections made for both coats and gowns. Soft blues and greens were very much in evidence at the races, but the dark reds of the past season were rarely seen.

Children's Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

The Feast in the Old Pasture

Let cushion every movement grace,
And of your presence leave no trace.

—Old Man Coyote.

WHEN Old Man Coyote had caught that plump hen in Farmer Brown's dooryard, he had done it so quickly and quietly that the other hens had known nothing about it. You see, that plump hen had been off by herself. So after leaving her hidden in the grass, Old Man Coyote ran back swiftly, but just as cautiously as possible. This time he did not find a plump hen quite so hasty. He had to cross the doorway in order to get out. He didn't hesitate. Like a real thief, he shot out into the midst of those surprised hens and seized one of them by the neck. Then while the others ran in all directions, making a terrible racket, Old Man Coyote dodged around the corner of the barn and once more headed for the Old Pasture.

This time he kept right straight on going. When he reached the Old Pasture he headed straight for his old home—the one he had had to give up when Mrs. Coyote had chosen another home. Straight into his old home, he went, and there he left the plump hen. Then turning back, he made straight for the plump hen he had hidden in the grass—the first one he had caught. She was there just where he had left her. Picking her up he carried her up to his old home and put her with the other one. Then, grinning in a very pleased way, he trotted up to the hidden new home of which Mrs. Coyote was so proud. He knew she would be waiting for him there.

You should have seen the look of disappointment on her face when she saw Old Man Coyote trotting up without that promised dinner. "I thought," she said, "you were going to bring a dinner that would be even better than a young Chuck dinner."

Old Man Coyote grinned until his tongue hung out of his mouth. "What kind of a dinner would be a better dinner than a young Chuck dinner?" he asked.

Mrs. Coyote confessed that she didn't know. "But you promised me one," she said.

"As I always keep my promises," said Old Man Coyote. "Come with me and you shall have the best dinner you have had for a long time."

"Why didn't you bring it here?" demanded Mrs. Coyote.

"Because," replied Old Man Coyote, "it would be much wiser to eat it somewhere else. Now, come along with me."

Mrs. Coyote went. She followed Old Man Coyote down along the old cowpath until they came to his old home. He disappeared inside and in a moment or two popped his head with a plump hen in his mouth. "Oh!" said Mrs. Coyote.

Old Man Coyote, said nothing, but coming out, laid the plump hen at Mrs. Coyote's feet. "This, my dear, is for you," he said.

"But aren't you going to share it with me?" Mrs. Coyote asked. Right down in her heart she hoped he wasn't.

"No," he replied, "you see I

Bathing Accessories

BY WANDA BARTON.

THING accessories for the seaside vacation are expensive. There are, however, many things that may be made at home at almost half the cost.

The bathing wrap is quite a necessity these days, especially with the one-piece bathing suit. It is generally made of a soft terry cloth, lined with a contrasting color the same shade as the suit underneath. Then there is the little wash silk "wash utilty bag" that holds all the odds and ends required for toilet use, and the bag must also match the other things. Most bathers seem to prefer using the close all rubber cap to protect the hair, over all the fancy handkerchief of wash silk to match the suit.

Beach parasols, with nonrustable frames, covered with wash silk or satin are a boon to the bather who does not care to sit in the broad sunlight. For those who enjoy beach bathing there are air pillows shaped like fishes that make a comfortable headrest, and, incidentally, keep the sand out of the hair.

Flowered chiffon and georgettes which for a time seemed to have been supplanted by new designs of small conventional flowers, and checks, have burst forth again in all their former glory. There is nothing quite so gay and so much apropos of a festival at the races and garden parties as these brilliantly colored frocks.

The new gowns were usually made with very full skirts and bloused or jacket bodices, with no trimming except perhaps a flower at the shoulder or the waist.

A silk pajama worn on the beach are made in many daring combinations. Most frequently the pajamas are made of black wash satin trimmed with gaily colored wash silk. Conspicuous among these are the shades of orange, red and green. With these colors repeated in head kerchiefs and parasols, the bather is quite a brilliant spot on the landscape.

Batterized materials are to be had by the yard and may be used for the homemade accessories. It is also a good idea to take a couple of yards of flat elastic in the sewing or bathing bag, for the salt water often takes the pep out of that run through waist or trousers.

Quilted quilts are the newest one-strap kidkin slippers, the wash of which have alternating stripes stitched in quilted design. The quarters are of the lighter shade and the binding, ball, spike heels and narrow strap are of the same tone as the darker stripes.

Clear, White, Smooth
Hands Are Beautiful

Manicuring alone cannot make the hands beautiful. The skin itself must be soft, firm, white, and youthful. The easiest way to do this is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, and massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the hands and arms. It will make even stained, toll-worn hands soft, clear, smooth and white.

All dealers have Orchard White.

"Why didn't you bring it here?" demanded Mrs. Coyote.

"I am a stranger," said he.

"You are wonderful, my dear," said she.

Effective!

When you've enjoyed wind-and-sun-kissed days, then it is to remove the mask of freckles on your face. If you seek something that will be quick results, yet is absolutely safe, thousands of girls, like pretty Miss Ruth Brodmelk, 164 19th St., Union City, N. J., find this in Black and White Beauty Bleach, which erases all discoloration as if by magic, leaving your skin as transparently fair and clear as the you'd not been outside. This gossamer, flesh colored cream cannot harm the most delicate skin—it does not even go beneath the surface.

Miss Brodmelk says: "Never again a vacation for me without Black and White Beauty Bleach! It's simply marvelous the quick, sure way this effective cream gets my skin fair and clear."

60,000 dealers everywhere have the generous 50c jar.

Simply get an ounce of Orlane from any drug or department store and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than one course is needed to completely clear the skin and give a beautiful complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Orlane, as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove your freckles.

ETHICS IS THE BEST POLICY.

LITTLE Able came home from school with a question for his father.

"Poppa," he demanded, "the teacher in school today told us we must have 'ethics.' What is ethics, Poppa?"

"Well, you see, Able, it's like this," explained the father carefully. "Your Uncle Louis and me are in the clothing business together."

"Well, when he comes in and buys a nice suit of clothes. And when he takes the money out of his pocket and pays me the ten dollars too much. Now, Able, what should I do? Should I keep that ten dollars—or should I give half to your Uncle Louis? That's ethics, Able."

Beach parasols, with nonrustable frames, covered with wash silk or satin are a boon to the bather who does not care to sit in the broad sunlight. For those who enjoy beach bathing there are air pillows shaped like fishes that make a comfortable headrest, and, incidentally, keep the sand out of the hair.

Flowered chiffon and georgettes which for a time seemed to have been supplanted by new designs of small conventional flowers, and checks, have burst forth again in all their former glory. There is nothing quite so gay and so much apropos of a festival at the races and garden parties as these brilliantly colored frocks.

The new gowns were usually made with very full skirts and bloused or jacket bodices, with no trimming except perhaps a flower at the shoulder or the waist.

A silk pajama worn on the beach are made in many daring combinations. Most frequently the pajamas are made of black wash satin trimmed with gaily colored wash silk. Conspicuous among these are the shades of orange, red and green. With these colors repeated in head kerchiefs and parasols, the bather is quite a brilliant spot on the landscape.

Quilted quilts are the newest one-strap kidkin slippers, the wash of which have alternating stripes stitched in quilted design. The quarters are of the lighter shade and the binding, ball, spike heels and narrow strap are of the same tone as the darker stripes.

Here's a Conductorette Who Is a Happy Working Wife

Mrs. Ivy Farrar Has a Regular Run on the Delmar-Olive Line and Keeps House for Her Conductor Husband, and Says It's the Life for Her.

By A. B. HENDRY.
UP THE lively and move up towards the front please," and an auburn-haired, blue-eyed conductorette slammed doors of the street car together with a peep, counted change for one passenger, punched transfers with a rapid zip-zip-zip for several others, ground the crank of her automatic cash register and, at the same time, managed sing out in a pleasing soprano voice: "Eight-cent, next!"

The conductorette was Mrs. Ivy Farrar, one of the six women conductors now working for United Railway Co. and one of the few remaining women workers yet doing work generally classified as men's work—relics of the days of 1917-18, when manpower was concerned with the more important task of making the world safe for democracy.

For nine years Mrs. Farrar has had a regular "run" on the Delmar-Olive line and she isn't thinking of retiring.

"Say, I wouldn't know what to do with myself if I didn't have my job," she said when visited at the Delmar-Olive avenue car sheds at Delmar and Delmar Boulevard, where she reports for work each day. "I surely would miss the boys out here and the folks I have come to know, who ride with me every day."

As she talked, approximately 150 men milled about the room in the sheds reserved for the street car crews, joining each other, laughing gaily at each other's salutes and greeting the conductorette—the only woman in the place with "Hello, Ivy." "How's tricks, Ivy?" as they went to and fro. One of them, pausing for a moment beside her, reached in his pocket, pulled out a coin and said: "Here's that quarter I owe you, Ivy"—for Mrs. Farrar is something of a banker on a small scale, among the street car men of her division.

Pool balls clinked merrily at several nearby tables placed in the room by the company as a diversion for the men, while Mrs. Farrar continued her discussion of her career as a conductorette.

"Strange experiences? Plenty of them every day," she smilingly went on. "People who have 'lost' their fare, others who try to put over old transfers, some who try to show what good masthers they are and those frequent passengers who try to rush past the fare-box as if they didn't see it. But I'm much with all of them and they either 'come across' or get off the car, unless the circumstances are unusual."

"The general run of people though are alright. They are good natured and accommodating and seem willing to do anything within reason to help me keep my car moving along at the pace we have to make."

There are many folks who ride with me regularly every day. Some of them I have come to know fairly well. One of them, an old gentleman, gives me dollars each Christmas. Another of my regular passengers gives me 50 cents for Christmas and I appreciate their spirit about it just as much as if they gave me $1,000."

"I got a 10-cent tip too, one time from a man, a stranger in the city, because I showed him where the Plaza Hotel is. I tried to make him take the tip back, telling him I will?"

Working Wives on Wives Who Work

Lucy Lowell, discussing working wives in the Post-Dispatch Daily Magazine, July 18, quoted one woman's opinion that the wife who goes outside her home to earn a salary is a menace to the home, the nation and the race, asked for the opinions of other women on working wives.

Is the woman who goes outside her home to earn a salary an asset to that home and to society generally?

Or is the American home breaking down and disappearing partially because of her?

Here are three answers:

Woman's Best Place

To Work Is at Home

By LUCY LOWELL.

HERE is a woman who believes wives should work outside their homes if they wish.

Most women wish to do something, she explains, and since so much work is done for them now,

"Dear Lucy Lowell,"

"With all manner of electrical devices for shortening hours of labor in the home, wives have too much time on their hands if they don't go to work outside their home."

"I think it is a very good thing for them, if they are idle they are sure to get into mischief, especially women who live in cities and have no children. They lose money at bridge and flirt at tea dances and goes to work outside her home to express herself?

What do YOU think?

A Wife Who Finds

Happiness in Work

I HAVE just been reading "Working Wives" by Lucy Lowell in the Post-Dispatch daily magazine.

It is very discouraging, that way of thinking.

Opinions differ. Should they not, what a funny world this would be if not intending to write a love story? It goes like this: I found my sweetheart when we were both at work. He a meatcutter, myself a cashier at the same place (or course).

Being married several years, working on small pay, we just live. Now I am working every day with my husband in a business of our own—grandmother minding our 3½-year-old daughter part of the time.

I can truthfully say we are happier than we have ever been. For the reason we are financially able to meet our responsibilities. Finding time for baby, husband, home and church.

Isn't this more profitable than a society mother who has the maid to care for the children while she idles her time at card playing or dancing?

As for home cooking, it's possible too, if one manages it.

I think it is quite necessary for wives and mothers to work sometimes. Is not the wife to be a "helpmate" to her husband in every way possible?

SUE ROBINSON.

Elson, Mo.

A Woman's Place Is

Where She Can Help

I SHOULD like to answer an article by Lucy Lowell in the July 18th edition where she quotes some woman on the working wife question, making her mendacious speech, the woman has entirely lost sight of one class of working wives and that is the young wives whose husbands are only making a small salary. Most of these men are young also and are just beginning to climb the ladder. In that case, they aren't making enough to afford a home with children right off the bat. Isn't much better, then, that the wife work for a while and help him lay aside enough for a home and family, then the wife can enter both when they have them?

What possible virtue would there be in leaving a young fellow's shoulders with a lot of debts and three or four children whom he can't support and making a discouraged old man of him and making his wife a soured, disheartened old woman from skimping and piecing, just to stick to an obsolete saying that "Woman's place is in the home?"

Woman's place is wherever she can best help her husband and the greatest help to her husband and their home and family. I know that ninety-nine out of a hundred young couples that have tried the old-style method would never do it over again if they could go back. They envy the young husband and wife who have kept their good looks and dispositions while saving and whose homes and families reflect the good judgment of the husband and wife in choosing the right time to make practice.

The thing wrong with this picture, it seems to me, is the idea that a woman can't find plenty of self-expression in taking care of her children.

Leaving some nurse maid—a girl who does the best she can, but is necessarily a person of not too much education and ability to rear children, while the mother goes roaming out to some office or shop to preen her ego with the notion of self-expression is nothing short of criminal.

There is no human being who can teach and train and help children grow, as their own mother can, providing she is a good mother.

And it is her duty to be a good mother. It is up to her to study motherhood; to learn all she can about woman's highest and most important job—rearing children—and to put what she learns into practice.

A woman not willing to do this has failed to children and no right to marry.

And the wife who refuses to have children because she lives in the city where space is cramped and living conditions difficult for little ones, should move to the country.

Which is the more pathetic and tragic figure, the mother who leaves her children to be brought up by a nurse maid, or the wife who refuses to have children and Saving on Skins.

NEW YORK.—One clever Parisian actress has just had an idea which has saved her money. What Does Cal Think of Cal?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
COOLIDGE is away in the Black Hills country fishin' with milkfed worms, and the boys out there feel he is indeed a regular fellow. He is. But there are more things of interest to the nation and to Cal than fish that bite and fish that do not. Cal feels pretty swell in that cowboy toga, and seems to be itchin' for another toga that he has been using for some years. Wonder what the farmer vote really thinks of keepin' cool with Coolidge? Wonder what the farmers who have lost their all their farms feel and think? What of the toilers, who still own their farms, of course well mortgaged? What of the sufferers in the flood districts who have lost their everything, and who believed in Cal calling an extra session? Can they admire the cowboy togs?

No man has ever been elected to a third term—but of course Cal is the exception. Ten-gallon hats, chaps and even a regular .44 with belt and cartridges, are all right for dramatics, but we feel reasonably sure that the farmer vote will not fall for milkfed fishworms and the like.

A Terrible Quandary.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WELL, I suppose if K. N. Newman, after reorganizing the United Railways, will be in a terrible quandary as to whether to buy a steam yacht and take a trip around the world, or to settle down for the winter in a million-dollar villa on the Mediterranean.

P. D. S.

Toccoa And The South.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
THAT was a fine exposition you gave of the duty and responsibilities of a publisher for maintaining high standards in knowledge and craftsmanship when dealing with matters or issues affecting the public, when you editorially discussed the harm that had been done through Mr. Ford's dissemination of anti-Jewish propaganda in the columns of his Dearborn Independent. How inconsistent with the high ideals you expressed, however, were your editorial utterances of the day previous, in which you cast insinuating and vile aspersions upon the entire South, because of an act that had been committed in a rural hamlet of Georgia!

Your characterization of the "backward South" as "diseased and frantic" "raging aristocratic South" as you are pleased to term it, indicates a lack of knowledge and appreciation of the high quality of citizenship of that great section of our country almost equal to that you charge Henry Ford with possessing.

Aimee McPherson's show was a flop in Alton. She trotted out her trick performers, her red banners, her white robes and all the other paraphernalia, her famous voice played on the spectators with all the cadences of an Aeolian harp, and her outstretched arms figuratively embraced everybody along the river front from Wood River to Clifton Terrace. But Alton, which usually gets the road shows that appear in St. Louis, is up on things dramatical. It refused to kick in. Aimee McPherson's last financial statement, issued after she had put on five performances, showed that Alton had contributed only $615. This is only a little more than $100 a day, matines and evening, while in Chicago the Titan-haired beauty from Los Angeles knocked them off to the tune of $1000 per evening.

Not to Mention the Collapse of the 30-Year Franchise.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

YOU editorial, "War in Nicaragua," and your Washington dispatch on the same subject indicate such extreme prejudice against Kellogg and Coolidge that you are not representative of public sentiment. It was amply demonstrated when the leader of the Toccoa raid was promptly tried and sentenced to the penitentiary within less than a month from the date of the crime.

I. D. WALTER.

Flying, and Next.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

NOW that we can fly pretty well, it won't be long, of course, until we can fly well. Presently we shall get the hang of fogs and acquire the knack of successful skirmishing with head winds. We shall be able to go to and fro around the earth with ease.

Not so very long now. This is 1927. The first quarter of this present century has equaled in scientific accomplishment the whole of the last previous century. The second quarter will, I think, double the quadruple the achievements of the first quarter. The young children of today appear to be born with certain knowledge—about radio, airplanes, automobiles, etc.—which took our fathers some hard-working years to figure out. They acquire it by a sort of mental osmosis; it is in the atmosphere and they sop it up. To the older generation they appear to have it by instinct. It is a splendid inheritance, and they will put it to good use. Watch them!

New York. CONTRIB.

WHAT NEXT?

Now that our ill-starred adventure in Nicaragua has resulted in the massacre at Ocotlán, which not even staunch defenders of the Coolidge administration can stomach with relish, why not admit the failure of the whole enterprise and withdraw our forces from that unhappy country?

After all, we have a canal treaty with Nicaragua and will need her good will in time to come much more than we need at this time to make the puppet president Diaz stick. The way things are going we can only hope to make of Nicaragua what England for so long made of Ireland. She will never resign her hope of freedom and the right to govern herself, and to try to beat her into submission can only estrange us from us at last, commercially and politically, every country in Latin-America.

Both Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Kellogg have protested that what we are doing in Nicaragua is not the naked and shameless imperialism it seems to be. We have, so they say, a benevolent motive beneath the rough exterior of our armed intervention, but it is useless to say anything more about that now our marines have killed 300 Nicaraguans. No interpretation which we may put upon our policy can dismisse the fears and dissipate the resentment of the Latin-American peoples or make us seem to them anything less than the ruthless conqueror which we were at Ocotlán.

The Post-Dispatch believes that the diagnosis of the Senator from New Hampshire is correct. But it believes equally that the Senator is a prophet deserving of honor when he says that if the President wants a renomination he can get it. Any Republican President, barring the rankest kind of scandal in his administration, can so intrench himself in power through use of his patronage resources and through his command of the Southern delegates as to assure himself of renomination. Even President Taft, in the face of the determined Roosevelt movement of 1912, was able to do this. And who is there in the Republican party today who is able to lead a comparable insurrection against Coolidge?

The Rough Rider of the Black Hills, we may be sure, has his political fences in good order. Nobody can stop him if he decries his own selection as the Republican standard bearer for 1928. But is there not something calculated to give him pause in the third thesis of the New Hampshire Senator, namely, that the price of his renomination and re-election "might be a suddenly accepted administration, which could be no good to the President, the Republican party or the country"?

Mr. Coolidge, with all his recent penchant for putting on the habiliments of the Deadshot Dicks and the Alkaik Ikes of the Great Open Spaces, is notoriously a cautious man. Will he court the risk which the astute Moses has called to his attention?

THIRD TERM REPARTEE.

RUMANIA'S PROBLEM.

In discussing the possibility that Prince Carol may secure the Rumanian throne, it should be recognized that the forces tending to that end are economic rather than political. Rumania's problem at present is whether the long rule of the plutocratic Bratianu family should be continued.

The Bratianos might almost be called the super-Mellons of Rumania. During the many years they have either held or controlled the premiership they have managed to obtain complete control of the important commercial, industrial and financial interests of the country. Through the Liberal party, which the family dominates, it has so perverted the law nationalizing the natural resources that these are now in the hands of its associates. Liberals control the petroleum and natural gas lands, the important coal companies, the munitions and metallurgical works, the fisheries of the Danube Delta and the Black Sea, and the railroads. Liberals likewise are in control of the National Bank of Rumania and most private financial institutions. Through power over the granting of loans, they have secured dominant influence in many lines of industry and commerce.

The average Rumanian is, to be sure, pretty tired of being victimized by this highbrow Ohio Gang, which manages to keep him picked as clean as the average St. Louisian would be if the Munroes and Newmans were able to do with him exactly as they pleased. But Rumania, being still a kingdom, knows of no way to get rid of an objectionable Government except to get a different King. It is this which accounts for what ever desire the people of the country may have for the enthronement of Carol.

HARD-BOILED ALTON.

Aimee McPherson's show was a flop in Alton. She trotted out her trick performers, her red banners, her white robes and all the other paraphernalia, her famous voice played on the spectators with all the cadences of an Aeolian harp, and her outstretched arms figuratively embraced everybody along the river front from Wood River to Clifton Terrace. This is only a little more than $100 a day, matines and evening, while in Chicago the Titan-haired beauty from Los Angeles knocked them off to the tune of $1000 per evening.

Hard-boiled Alton was too much for Aimee. She left it to stew in the juices of Satan and to boil in the bouillon of Beelzebub.

A ROYAL MESS.

Gen. Ely, commandant of the Army War College, says the United States has a war every 25 years and will have another one very soon unless human nature has changed. The General doesn't count the war in Nicaragua, which is only about the size of our American Revolution.

THE CONFUSION OF EXPERTS.

The most distressing aspect of the big fight is the confusion of experts, who are trying to save what shreds of reputation were left to them after Tunney fought Dempsey. It will be remembered—who could forget it?—that nearly all the experts left-hooked and right-jabbed Tunney into a pulp before he ever entered the ring. In fact, that fight was the greatest calamity for experts since the expert dramatic critics, upon viewing "Abe's Irish Rose," rushed to their typewriters to say that it was a flop which would die inside the theater.

This what comes of taking one's self too seriously. It seems the experts deem it their duty, not only to observe accurately, but to don the mantle of clairvoyance. Jimmy de Forest is a marvelous trainer, but he is no Mme. Thebes. Robert Edgren knows the boxing game, and is a good reporter of it, but no one expects him to know what will happen once the gong rings for the first round and the whilom tiger, Dempsey, meets the pantherish Sharkey in the center of the ring.

But the experts won't have it that way. They must tell that Sharkey will win on points at the end of 15 rounds, or that Dempsey will, to use the colorful argot of the ring, smack the Boston boy on the button ere the bout is well started. And in this fight particularly the experts really have no idea what is going to happen. Even as they pontificate, they blush with embarrassment, knowing it is all guesswork. Shucks! Let's let Dempsey and Sharkey fight it out by themselves.

MOSES PROPOUNDS A PUZZLER.

Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, the President pro tempore of the Senate, has long been noted for his candor. He speaks out in meeting, and generally with pungent directness. It is not surprising, therefore, to read that Moses has come back from a tour of the West with the report that it harbors a "vigorous opinion" against a third term for President Coolidge. In this respect he affords a noticeable contrast with the great majority of his fellow Republican statesmen, who, whatever may be their secret hopes and beliefs, proclaim in public that the country is clamoring for Mr. Coolidge's re-election.

The Post-Dispatch believes that the diagnosis of the Senator from New Hampshire is correct. But it believes equally that the Senator is a prophet deserving of honor when he says that if the President wants a renomination he can get it. But it believes equally that the Senator is a prophet deserving of honor when he says that if the President wants a renomination he can get it. Any Republican President, barring the rankest kind of scandal in his administration, can so intrench himself in power through use of his patronage resources and through his command of the Southern delegates as to assure himself of renomination. Even President Taft, in the face of the determined Roosevelt movement of 1912, was able to do this. And who is there in the Republican party today who is able to lead a comparable insurrection against Coolidge?

Lovable TalesA MERRY-GO-ROUND OF MODERN TALES. By Caroline D. Emerson. Illustrations by Lois Lenski. (Dutton.)FROM time immemorial it has been characteristic of human nature to read anthropomorphic legends into a cosmos that would otherwise seem hostile to men. It has been a saving trick, at least, nor does it yet appear that the disillusionment of positivistic science has made us happier; for certainly it seems to reveal an utterly unhuman universe that takes no heed of our dearest values nor cares what becomes of us. Instinctively still, we catch ourselves striving to humanize the vast scheme of things, that we may feel less lost in mystery. Sophisticated grownups may suppress this instinct, but failing to endow the unhuman with human personality and meaning, but in the lives of most young children it remains delightfully apparent.*That deep-seated desire has been taken into account by the author of the altogether lovable tales for youngsters here presented; but its application has been brought down to date. Instead of dealing with the familiar objects of the child's world as it used to be, the author's humanizing fancy is turned to modish things.*There is the tale of the merry-go-round that knew the names of all the children who rode on it, and that once ran away from its owner in order that the Griggs children, who had been sent their pennies for weeks, might have a more lonesome ride for their money. And there is the story of the kindly telephone. A certain pitchy little girl was going to have a party, and she didn't deserve one at all; so the telephone delivered the invitations and gave the orders for refreshments with a change of name, so that a poor, dear, gormless little girl had the party. Of course, no one ever dreamed of suspecting the telephone. Then there is a story of a train that got tired running on the same track every day. So it took to the roads and fields, meeting the horses and the horns and cows, and to its own sorrow, as the adventure turned out. Also, we are told how there was once a house whose rooms didn't like their locations at all. The attic changed places with the basement, the kitchen with the parlor, the bedrooms with each other, and finally even the stairs went on strike and lay down, refusing to be stairways any more. As a result, the disgruntled family moved out and put the Bolsheviks in their house. The Bolsheviks were very sorry it had been an unreasonable. And according to the book, there was once a store that worried of having people look at things without buying; so it announced that everything in stock would be given away on a certain day. Big business resulted, but the storekeeper, being pig-headed, couldn't appreciate the store's commercial sense at all. And there is a tale all about the fine.*ROWFOREST. (By Anthony Prude.) Dodd Mead & Co.A story of the English aristocracy and their long struggle to retain their ancestral estates against commercialism.*THE HARVEST MOON. By J. Fletcher. (George H. Doran & Co.)Who was Adrian Darrel, the charming young painter with a knapsack on his back? Was he a villain or a romantic knight?*Those who are intrigued by the question will find the answer in this tale of love, mystery and adventure.*ODALISQUE. By L. M. Hussey. Knopf.The story of a young South American girl's triumph over the conventions and restrictions imposed on her by her religion and environment. The scenes are laid in Venezuela and New York.*VEENERS AND FLYWOOD. By E. Vernon Knight & Mehrad Wulpi. (The Ronald Press Co., New York.)Designed for the student and teacher in the industrial arts, the purchaser of furniture and the salesman thereof.*brought to justice. Public opinion stands for this. Is there any question in your mind how this political issue should be adjudged in the light of your Christian knowledge? Your duty as a Christian and a citizen is plain. Your church has no interest as a church but in your dual membership in the church and the state are vitally interested.*Urge Church to Keep Out.The church should not meddle in politics for the purpose of making its religious standards and viewpoints a code of conduct for the nation. This is the first step in breaking down religious liberty. It is an encroachment on the first amendment and our Lutheran church should keep its hands clean."Even now a large body of the Lutheran church has fallen a victim to environment and is passing resolutions on political questions at its conventions. It is getting involved in the political issues of the day and forgetting its real purpose and commission: that its principles remain as unchangeable as the eternal truth while political questions and issues change from day to day.*Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Howard of 5501 Chamberlain avenue, are spending the summer in Europe. FLY-TOX KILLS
MOSQUITOES

Mosquitoes Thin Your Blood

Normal human blood is too thick to be drawn through the mosquito's thin proboscis tube. They must first ingest a thinning fluid. In that way disease germs are set afire in the blood stream—bacteria of burning fever and crippling disease. There is also the danger of streptococci infection (blood poisoning) from scratching the bite. Mosquitoes must be killed. Health authorities advocate Fly-Tox. Simple directions on each bottle (box label) for killing ALL household insects. Insist on Fly-Tox. Fly-Tox is easy to use. Safe, stainless, fragrant, sure.

DESPAIRED OF EVER HAVING GOOD COMPLEXION

Pimples relieved after trying well known remedy

Spokane, Wash., Jan. 31.—My skin had been very clear up to while ago when blackheads and then pimples developed. They spread rapidly and I was terribly annoyed. I used several suggested remedies without good results and was disgusted and just ready to give up hope of ever having a good complexion again when I saw one of your advertisements. At the same time, a friend recommended Resinol Soap and Ointment so I began to use them. After a few applications my trouble was relieved, and I now keep these products always on hand. They are so soothing and refreshing and I find the treatment so good for the scalp and for the hands."—Signed, Miss Carmel De Felice, E. 1723 Third Avenue.

WITH BRIDE'S RELATIVE

Painter Tells Police He Got Part of $1495 Taken From Pair.

A confession that he was one of four men who robbed Ruthsiene Miesse and his bride, Anna, in their third floor flat at 7613 Folk street, of $1495 last Monday, has been obtained from Frank Davis, 50 years old, a painter of 3218 Rutgers street, police announced today.

Davis' confession implicates a relative of Mrs. Miesse, who was robbed of $1430 who had inherited from a deceased husband a week after she had married a laborer. The relative and another young man named by Davis as one of the four held by police, but they deny any knowledge of the robbery. Police are seeking the fourth man.

Davis, who is married and has four children, was arrested yesterday by Detectives White and Immekens on a farm near De Soto. Brought to the Wyoming Street Station last night, he confessed and turned over to them $600, his share of the money taken from Miesse and his wife, the detectives reported.

The relative, according to police records, is out on parole after serving part of a five-year sentence for robbery in St. Louis.

Davis, the detectives said, claimed the relative, suggested the robbery two weeks ago while they were painting a house in the West End. Davis related he looked over the Miesse flat first in the guise of a painter. The money, he said, was split three ways, the relative who suggested the holdup receiving nothing.

Mrs. Miesse kept her money in a small pocket sewed into her underskirt. She said only the detective knew she had it. Police recovered $1495, which had been picked up one young man on suspicion last Monday and then began to look for Davis as one of his associates. Miesse was struck over the head twice with a revolver by one of the robbers.

REQUISITION FOR EXTRADITION
CHARGES THEFT OF CHOW DOG

Calls for Return of J. S. Plant From Pittsburgh (Pa.) to Face Accuser in This City.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 21.—Gov. Baker today issued a requisition for the extradition of J. S. Plant from Pittsburgh, Pa., to stand trial in St. Louis on a charge of having stolen Bill Taft, a Chow dog valued at $150, from William J. Wolf, president of the West Side Nash Motor Co., 5143 Delmar boulevard. The requisition has been sent to the Governor of Pennsylvania for his signature.

Wolf met Plant when the latter purchased an $1100 automobile. Wolf says he, in turn, bought one of the eight Chow dogs Plant had with him. On Easter Sunday, Wolf says, Plant "borrowed" the dog and did not return. The owner of the automobile, broadcast to Nash dealers throughout the country resulted in Plant's arrest at Pittsburgh. He also is accused of a $30,000 swindle in Chicago and of fraudulently obtaining $484 worth of office furnishings from the Trörlicht-Duncker Co. of St. Louis.

Cresylic Acid Duty Reduced.

RAPID CITY, S. D., July 21.—Under the flexible provisions of the tariff act, President Coolidge has decreed a duty on refined cresylic acid from 47 per cent and 7 cents a pound to 29 per cent and 3½ cents a pound.

Freak Weather Harasses Sweden
By the Associated Press
GOTHENBURG, Sweden, July 21.—Freak weather conditions have been harassing Sweden, causing considerable damage in the Lapland regions on the west coast. At Gällivare, far north of the Arctic Circle in Lapland, while at Umeå, on the northern Baltic coast, a 16-year-old girl above 90 degrees have been reported. At Stockholm it has been much cooler. Lightning ruined a giant transformer at the famous Porjus hydro-electric power station, owned by the Government and close to the Arctic Circle in Lapland, while at Umeå, on the north ern Baltic coast, a 16-year-old girl was killed and three soldiers struck unconscious. Heavy rainfalls transformed the city of Gothenburg into a lagoon, the streets becoming like rivers and the market squares resembling lakes.

THURSDAY EVENING, JULY 21, 1927

The sun broke through a dense fog at 3 a.m. and the weather sharp predicted the hordes of fight fans would be able to enjoy the encounter without worrying about the weather.

The accumulated rust of four almost idle years has been scouring off, to some extent; the creaking joints have been oiled up; the famous left hook has been taught to find the mark again, with more or less accuracy; and the old engine was gotten into such outward appearance of usefulness that today the majority of the 80,000 persons who are expected to view the struggle at Yankee Field tonight believe that the two fighters can do their stuff and put away Jack Sharkey, the cocky upstart, inside the scheduled 15 rounds.

Strange to say, this popular belief is not backed up by weight of money; for Sharkey support is steadily growing stronger. It is considered probable that he will enter the ring tonight a 3 to 1 favorite to eliminate the one-time King of Killers.

ST. LOUISIAN KILLS SELF IN JAIL IN CHICAGO

Louis H. McComas, Handbook Operator Seizes Policeman's Pistol and Ends Life.

Louis H. McComas, handbook operator and former manager of a cigar store at 223 Olive street, reached through the bars of his cell in a Chicago police station last night, and snatching a policeman's pistol from its holster, fired two shots into his head. He died after being removed to a hospital. McComas had been arrested yesterday when detectives noticed him acting queerly and was being held for observation.

He was 33 years old. Until recently he lived at 5540 Pershing avenue.

Friends in St. Louis relate he has been brooding over his estrangement from his wife who divorced him Aug. 11, 1928. She was formerly a manicure employee in a barber shop near his cigar store. They were married in July, 1925, at St. Charles and separated a year later. Her divorce was obtained on the ground of general indigence.

McComas finally tried to effect a reconciliation. He resigned his position at the cigar store late last year and since that time had been employed by several handbook makers. A week ago he went to Chicago.

McComas was well known to members of the police gambling squad. In 1925 until he left the store in 1928 he was arrested 55 times on charges of gambling, but never fined.

ASTOR AND GIRL DROWNED AFTER SAVING TWO LIVES

When Delegate to Arcadia, Mo., Conference Dies, Total of Fatalities to St. Louisans Goes to Five.

BODY OF NOTED FLY FISHERMAN FOUND

Frederick Simpson, 29, Celebrating Two Anniversaries, Sinks in River as Family Looks on.

Miss Ida Ricketts, 19 years old, of 4560 Wichita avenue, delegate to the Methodist Annual Conference in Arcadia, Mo., drowned this afternoon in Lake Killarney, near town, with a Methodist minister who struggled for several minutes to bring her to shore.

The minister was the Rev. C. C. Peter of Doniphan, Mo., also a delegate. He had gone in search of members of his party, who said they were going swimming, when he heard cries for help. A woman and a boy were in difficulties in the lake, in which there is a deep hole, and Miss Ricketts was attempting to save them.

Peter, who was 40 years old, dangled into the water and seized the boy. He got him to shore at the same time as the woman. With both safe ashore, he returned for Miss Ricketts, who was trying for help in the deep water. He stretched out an arm as he approached and the two went down together. The bodies were recovered a quarter of an hour later.

Boy Drowns in Mississippi While Swimming Party.

Swimming with several other boys in the Mississippi River at the foot of Quincy street, Elmo Sanders, 10 years old, was seized with cramps and drowned at 3:45 p.m. today. The boy did not rise to the surface. He was the son of Charles E. and Helen Sanders of 1224 South Broadway. Police grappled for the body but did not recover it.

George Ashton Drowned in the Meramec River.

The body of George Ashton, regarded as one of the best fly fishermen in the St. Louis district, was recovered yesterday in the Meramec River near St. Clair. Franklin County, was recovered at 8:25 a.m. today, 24 hours after the drowning.

Accompanied by a friend, C. C. Cherbonnier of St. Louis, and a guide, Houston Lewis of St. Clair, Ashton left a camp at Shady Beach, five miles south of St. Clair, for a day's fishing. At a point where the current was swift, the guide jumped out of the rowboat to pull a shoal. He slipped and the boat overturned with Ashton and Cherbonnier each clinging to it.

Ashton caught hold of a floating log and called on Cherbonnier to likewise. Cherbonnier did so, but Ashton lost his grip and sank, despite the efforts of Cherbonnier and the guide to save him. His body was found a mile away.

Ashton was 65 years old and lived at 4458 Washington boulevard.

Ashton had been in the grocery business 40 years, beginning as a salesman and later operating what was said to be the first chain of small groceries in St. Louis.

War Veteran Loses Life Celebrating Two Anniversaries.

The Meramec River is being fished for the body of Frederick Simpson, 29 years old, who drowned yesterday afternoon near Soddy four miles upstream from Valley Park. It was his twenty-ninth birthday and eighth wedding anniversary yesterday afternoon.

His wife, S. and daughter—Audrey, 5, and Eleanor, 4—were on the bank when he disappeared from view in the middle of the river.

Catholic Student for Priesthood Drowns on Vacation.

The Rev. Ferdinand A. Keaven, 26 years old, of Florissant, was drowned yesterday in the Wisconsin River near Prairie du Chien, Wis., where he was spending the summer.

He began studying for the priesthood in 1920 when he entered St. Stanislaus at Florissant after being graduated from St. Louis University High School.

Parish services will be at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow from the Sacred Heart Church at Florissant with interment in St. Stanislaus Cemetery. He is survived by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand A. Keaven of Florissant, a brother, Harry, and two sisters, Mrs. George Moellering and Miss Alice Keaven.
